Letchworth Garden City

Letchworth Garden City is well placed to serve London, East of England, Midlands and the whole of the South East, and sits between two international airports.

It has a population of 34,318 (2021 Census) and is located in North Hertfordshire, approximately 32 miles north of London. The town has direct access to the A1(M), which offers links to the M25, 20 minutes to the south. Letchworth Garden City mainline railway station provides a direct service to main London stations (36 minutes) and Cambridge (25 minutes) and is well located for the international airports at both Luton and Stansted.

We are the largest landlord in the Garden City, using income generated from the estate to fund our charitable commitments and reinvest in the property portfolio

Founded in 1903, and built on a sustainable ideology, Letchworth is the world's very first Garden City.

It was part of a movement pioneered by Ebenezer Howard in the early 20th century which aimed to create self-sustaining towns that offered the benefits of both urban and country living. It was based on a vision of towns 'designed for industry and healthy living; of a size that makes possible a full measure of social life, but not larger; surrounded by a permanent belt of rural land; the whole of the land being in public ownership or held in trust for the community.' At their core, these ideals were rooted in creating a town that provided healthy surroundings, affordable homes and local jobs.

Part of that vision was, and continues to be, ensuring Letchworth is a Great Place to Work.

The Spirella Building: A Location

The perfect blend of history and heritage, and state of the art business facilities - customisable for your needs.

Letchworth Garden City is famous for being the world's first Garden City, conceived by the visionary Ebenezer Howard. Part of that vision was, and continues to be, delivering great places to work. Spirella was designed by Cecil Horace Hignett and completed in 1920. The building was designed as a corset factory, and also played a key part in the Second World War manufacturing military parachutes.

The building now offers flexible terms in state of the art, customisable premises suitable for a range of businesses.
